

Brush up on your skills

5 Key skills employers want
from new grads

September 15th, 2021

What are entry-level employers looking for in new hires?

Beyond the minimum requirements for each particular job — coursework or certifications in particular disciplines, internship experience in the field, etc.

Companies are also interested in bringing on employees who can demonstrate strength in a host of softer skills, like time management and customer service.

Here are the most commonly cited skills in demand among entry-level employers, along with links to LinkedIn Learning courses that can help you get started.

LinkedIn Learning Courses

Analytical Skills

- Learning Data Analytics
- Data Fluency: Exploring and Describing Data
- Learning Data Visualization

Project Management

- Project Management Foundations
- Project Management Foundations: Ethics
- Project Management Foundations: Requirements

Customer Service

- Customer Service Foundations
- Customer Service: Problem Solving and Troubleshooting
- Building Rapport with Customers

Marketing

- Online Marketing Foundations
- Content Marketing Foundations
- Email and Newsletter Marketing Foundations

Time Management

- Time Management: Working from Home
- Working and Collaborating Online
- Remote Work Foundations

